

ROSEWOOD4.0 reaches the halfway point by fostering innovation in the wood value chain

Nearing its halfway point, the ROSEWOOD 4.0 project is intensifying its activity and the search for selection and promotion of the best practices detected in relation to the sustainable mobilisation of wood in Europe. For instance, in December, over a dozen new practices from twelve European countries were presented among many others that are being identified and will be published on the project's new Knowledge Platform, to be released in the upcoming months.
